State Test Scores Cause Consternation

By JOHN HORGAN
(Analysis)

Nothing exercises officials of public school districts quite so intensely as state test results, particularly if they cast an unfavorable impression on their district.

Almost invariably, there is a clamor for change and urgent calls to do something.

Sometimes, the results are blithely ignored in hopes that, somehow, they will go away and no one will notice.

In San Mateo County, where test scores are usually high because of the general affluence and educational level of local families, flaps over scores have been relatively rare. Until now.

In the last several years, the state has adopted some new ways to look at test scores.

One of these involves expectations which take into account the backgrounds of students in particular districts.

If a district contains children with obvious socio-economic advantages, it is expected to score well on the tests.

Along with the routine raw per cent of questions answered correctly, this newest method of interpreting pupil performance — analyzed in terms of what is called a comparison band — has lately raised some hackles in this area.

In the Jefferson Union High School District, seniors tested in reading, written expression, spelling and mathematics did very poorly.

They scored below the state average in all four categories and they finished a total of 43 percentile points below the low figures on the four comparison bands.

In other words, not only did those students score low when it came to getting answers correct, but they also didn't fall within their range of expected scores in any category.

Jefferson authorities are not happy about this weak showing.

According to Supt. Dr. Floyd Gonella, "The scores were a definite indicator that we have to investigate our basic curriculum offering in this district. This will be a year of intensive study."

However, the trustees of the district questioned the validity of the tests.

They are not alone in that regard. Other boards have done much the same thing when bad news is presented to them.

Officials of the San Mateo City School District went to some lengths to try to explain why their students' scores did not quite measure up to expectations this time.

The superintendent, Dr. David Thomas, told the trustees at a recent meeting that the scores are like a report card, that there can be a margin of error involved.

"You have to take this with a grain of salt," he said. He said the results were significant if you examine them over a period of years.

Then, a principal, Dr. William Kramer of Borel Middle School, informed the board that the socio-economic data on which the comparison bands are based could well be erroneous too.

Since it is the principals who provide such information to the state, Kramer was speaking from a position of strength.

After listening to all this, one trustee, Robert Braun, remarked that, "If the tests had no value, I would think someone somewhere along the line would say get rid of them all." For him, the tests were important.

However, when it came to analyzing the data school by school, the trustees and administrators appeared worried.

Those in the audience were provided with such a breakdown of pupil performance — but the schools were not named. In place of names were letter symbols which meant essentially nothing to anyone viewing the scores for the first time.

Should the school-by-school scores be made public? That was a key question for the board.

One trustee, Albert DiMatteo, wanted only part of the data released: the raw scores themselves, not the percentile rankings or, presumably, the comparison bands of those rankings.

The fact that one middle school, Bayside, scored significantly low in mathematics could have had some influence on him. Bayside scored in the 37th percentile in math and it fell 16 percentile points off the low end of the comparison band in that test.

One administrator said later that Bayside's poor score in math dragged down the whole district's showing in sixth-grade math, to the point where the district scored below expectations in that test.

If only the raw scores had been shown, Bayside would have been only 5.8 per cent behind the next lowest school in math, Turnbull.

The board also had difficulty coming to grips with how the information districtwide would be released to the public.

It was debated and then decided that all of the information should be released but only after the superintendent had had the chance to prepare a cover letter explaining the nuances of the results.

Braun emphasized that the data ought to be available to anyone who wants to see it.

In the end, it was determined to have a copy of the results and the superintendent's letter available at each school — but only after the board gets a chance to see the material at a January board meeting.

Said Braun, "Why hide this? We can't control the information. We should make it available as easily as possible."

This sort of discussion didn't occur last year when the district's scores exceeded the comparison bands in several instances.

The scores aren't questioned when things appear to be happy.

Local administrators and trustees are not the

Crime Tops List of Attention-Getters

By FRANK LaPIERRE

While politics is expected to dominate the scene in San Mateo County's second largest city during the first part of 1976, crime succeeded in topping the list of attention-getters in Daly City during 1975.

The year begins with speculation as to which candidate, of the half dozen or so already mentioned, will occupy the two seats up for grabs after March 2.

And while City Hall watchers savor each tiny morsel of political gossip that is being whispered about the city concerning "deals" of all sorts, amateur crimebusters still are attempting to solve the city's latest, and only, unsolved double murder in recent history.

TO DATE, police have expended more than 800 man-hours on the investigation of a man and his wife found tied, gagged and shot to death in their home some two months ago.

Police thus far admittedly are baffled by the crime.

The double homicide was only one in the eight murders that struck the city in 1975.

While armed robberies, pursesnatches, auto thefts and bicycle thefts have declined in the past 12 months, there has been a slight increase in burglaries, strongarm robberies and petty thefts.

Chief David Hansen called the number of murders "unprecedented" in the department's long history.

In addition to writing 1,800 traffic citations in 1974, and investigating an average of 30-40 traffic accidents monthly, the police department drives some 60,000 miles per month to carry out these duties.

Hansen projects an increase of 50 per cent in the processing of warrants in the city, primarily due to a higher ratio of "foreign jurisdictions entering more of their warrants in the computerized aid system."

The "paper explosion" that threatens to inundate the city clerk's office qualified it for Federal Revenue Sharing Funds needed to buy a new "open shelf filing system," City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf explained.

Many vital records will be stored on microfilm and in the new system, promoting efficiency and economy in that office during the coming year.

DURING THE PAST year, a major new office was created in city government — that of director of community development.

This new office, headed by Don Fleming, a six-year veteran of the city manager's office, incorporates the offices of planning, housing and development under one roof.

During the early months of 1976, a 50 member Citizens Advisory Committee is expected to hand in its findings on modification of the city's General Plan, last updated in 1968 at a cost of $110,000 (partially with government funds).

The Project Redevelopment Project Area Committee (PAC) selected a consulting firm to draft a final plan for what is hoped will be a revitalization of the Mission Street-Junipero Serra Boulevard business corridors.

Both the PAC and Community Development department staff is working closely with the consulting firm to bring forward what Fleming calls "a positive program for the development of the commercial corridors."

Included in the recreation projects completed in 1975 were the Lincoln Park Expansion Program (Phase One) which involved removal of five dwellings, landscaping and addition to the Lincoln Park Clubhouse at a total cost of $316,329.52.

On June 14, 1975, the Camelot Park totlot was completed after months of construction at a cost of $25,367.

PROJECTS EXPECTED to be completed in 1976 include ten new tennis courts atop reservoir 5B in the Serramonte area and landscaping around the huge water storage facility.

An on-going program, started years ago in Daly City, is the annual planting of thousands of trees along city streets. The trees are supplied by the city's nursery in the Civic Center area, under the supervision of August Conci.

One of the largest projects that will be undertaken

A GUSHER

A car driven by Allyn Keil Richterman, 17, of South San Francisco, collided with a car driven by Timothy M. Harnett, 21, also of South San Francisco, and then careened into a roadside fire plug. The resultant geyser of water reached upwards of 30 feet into the Saturday night sky behind the Tanforan Shopping Center, according to fire department reports. Neither driver was hurt in the 7:30 p.m. mishap.

Vandals Strike Hospital

Vandals rampaged through a Pacifica convalescent hospital Christmas Eve, scattering food, splashing ketchup and writing obscenities on the walls.

"It was the worst case of vandalism I have ever come across — and on Christmas," said Officer Gary Roberts.

Police were called to the Pacifica Convalescent Hospital at 385 Esplanade at about 7 a.m. after employes had discovered that someone had broken into the building during the night and raised havoc.

Food set aside for the paitients' special Christmas dinner was scattered about the floor. Ketchup was splashed on walls and obscenities were written on walls, police reported.

Two bottles of wine, being saved especially for the Christmas dinner, were consumed and the empty bottles discarded inside the building.

The hospital is a three-story building, with the kitchen and offices on the ground floor, storage areas on the second floor and the patient care sections restricted to the third floor.

No one heard anything either Christmas Eve or early Christmas day, a night nurse said today.

Police say they believe the vandalism is the work of juveniles.

Thanks to the efforts of hospital staff, enough food was collected and prepared to serve Christmas dinner.

Political Trial in DC for 'Domino Theory'

Election year 1976 will test the "domino theory" in North San Mateo County politics.

Daly City will, as usual, be the epicenter of all political activity.

First, there is the municipal elections of March 2 with two seats up for grabs — that of Councilman Paul Hupf, an attorney who decided not to run again, and Councilman Anthony A. Giammona, athletic director at Westmoor High School and a veteran of ten years on the City Council.

Vying for the seats are a field of at least (at press time) six candidates.

Once the elections are over, City Hall watchers predict one Municipal judge in the North San Mateo County Judicial District will be elevated by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. to Superior Court, and Daly City City Attorney Albert Polonsky will be appointed to the vacated Municipal Judgeship.

And when the city attorney vacancy occurs, it is highly likely attorney Victor Kyriakis, presently mayor of the city, will step down from the council and assume this role.

This will leave a vacancy on the bench, which could be filled by a woman — the first such appointment in the city's history.

Meanwhile, Councilman McRobert Stewart has publicized the fact he is entering the county supervisor's race in June against Mrs. Jean Fassler.

There also are rumbles that Mrs. Fassler will not run for re-election — depending on whom one discusses the matter with.

Another Daly City councilman, William Schumacher, is sounding out possibilities he will be a candidate for San Francisco mayor-elect George Moscone's State Senate seat.

Schumacher says money is the key factor in whether he runs.

Oddsmakers predict Schumacher will not run in 1976 for the senate seat.

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, former Daly City councilman, also is making gestures indicating his interest in the State Senate seat.

But persons close to Papan say he will not risk his Assembly seat, in a district he is almost assured of holding against any Republican opponent, to run for the Senate in an area that could swallow him up in favor of a San Francisco candidate.

San Mateo County controls about 51 per cent of the State Senate post vote, while San Francisco makes up the remainder.

With Kyriakis agreeing he would make an excellent city attorney; Schumacher sounding more like a Senate candidate daily; Stewart voicing his opposition to the way Mrs. Fassler occupies her time on the County Board of Supervisors; and Hupf not running again, Daly City could, in 1976, end up with almost an entirely new City Council.

Attorneys Question Tests in Benny Harris Murder Trial

The attorney for accused Benny Harris of Daly City told a judge Monday that psychiatrist Mervyn Shoor of San Jose spent only five minutes with Harris and refused to consider past psychiatrict history before rendering an opinion on competency.

Superior Court Judge Lyle R. Edson accepted that opinion and one given by Dr. Richard Levy of San Mateo, and ruled that the 31-year-old Harris is competent to cooperate with his attorney, Joseph Gruber, and to stand trial.

But when Harris entered a dual plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity, Judge Edson agreed not to reappoint Shoor on the question of sanity.

Harris is charged with murder in the killing of Richard Gee, 61, of Daly City, last October.

Levy and Dr. Seymour Kolko of San Mateo will report to Edson on Jan. 19 on their opinions regarding Harris' sanity.

Prosecutor John D. Garvie had sought to have both Levy and Shoor reappointed.

But Gruber protested vehemently, and alleged that Shoor "was unwilling to consider the past psychiatric records."

Gruber said the psychiatrist was only to report on the question of competency, but also rendered an opinion on sanity.

"He's already made his conclusions — after five minutes in the county jail and is probably available

Pacifica Ready to Up Taxes

By RICK SULLIVAN

The Pacifica City Council made some tough financial decisions Monday night. If implemented, they are likely to make city residents unhappy.

Faced with possible insolvency by July 1978, the council instructed City Manager Donald Weidner to develop a budget for next fiscal year which would include increased revenue from a boost in the city tax rate of 32.7 cents and a decrease in the city payroll by 24 persons.

If that tax rate increase is officially adopted by the City Council next August after the budget has been approved, then the owner of an average priced home can expect to pay an additional $3.30 per month in city taxes.

The tax rate increase would bring the total city tax rate approved by the council to the maximum allowed by law.

But even with that increase, Weidner told the council, more revenues would have to be found or "drastic budget cuts" would have to be made if the city is to pull itself out of a projected $1,346,000 deficit by the end of fiscal year 1977-78.

The only other way the city could raise taxes beyond that set by the council, according to Weidner, would be to present a tax override vote to the residents.

City Council members chose not to take that route, noting the override stands little chance of getting the necessary 51 per cent voter approval in light of an increase in council-approved city taxes.

Instead, the council spent 2½ hours Monday attempting to give Weidner some direction on how to slice some $200,000 from next year's budget.

Weidner had estimated that the increased taxes would bring the city an estimated $340,000 in new revenue. He said new money plus some $200,000 in cuts in city services and personnel would balance the city's budget next fiscal year.

Before discussing specific cutbacks in individual city departments, council members suggested some "general avenues" for saving money.

Councilman Sid Lorvan advised the council to place a freeze on all hiring and to eliminate as many city

DC Officer Risks Life to Shut Off Gas

A possible tragedy was averted early today when a Daly City policeman inched his way into a natural gas-choked garage, where a car was parked with the motor running, and cautiously turned off the ignition.

Police said the car, whose owner has not yet been identified, apparently sheared off a main natural gas line inside an apartment building at 1500 Briggs St., Broadmoor.

The garage quickly filled with gas fumes.

A call went out for aid and Officer Henry Bunch of Daly City, and Lt. Jerry Shaffer of Broadmoor responded. On arrival, the policemen found the car with its motor running parked near the broken pipe.

According to witnesses, Bunch went into the garage and turned off the motor, thus lessening the danger of a violent explosion.

Ten apartments occupied by some 20 persons were evacuated for a time while the fumes dissipated, police said.

Police Take Fire Fighters Role

Two Daly City police officers temporarily played the part of firemen during a fire in a shed near the Cow Palace Sunday.

Officers George Quinn and Paul Bruemmer spotted smoke and flames coming from a shed at 605 Carter St. at about 4:30 a.m. and radioed for assistance.

They then began systematically searching the building for any possible occupants.

In a small room, they found Alexander Kolcek, 29.

Next, the officers and Kolcek led a horse, being stabled in the barn, to safety before returning and removing two cars from the burning structure.

Firemen, arriving on the scene minutes later, were unable to get near the building because of a high cyclone fence.

The firemen handed the two officers a fire hose over the fence and the lawmen began battling the blaze until fire apparatus could be repositioned. They then were relieved of their firefighting jobs.

Cause of the fire still is under investigation. The amount of monetary loss has not been determined.

Tests

only ones who express concern over the tests' validity.

Last week, the executive director of the National Education Association attacked standardized tests as "destructive and wasteful." The NEA is one of the largest teachers' organizations in the nation.

Terry Herndon proclaimed that teachers object "to being required to teach to a minimum performance level," an interesting remark in light of the fact that accountability at all levels of education has become a sort of national fetish.

Said Herndon, "Teachers must be accountable, but to the student and the parent, not to the maker and marketer of the tests."

Herndon stated that tests, by their very nature, fail to take into account the cultural, racial, social and economic differences of all students.

At the Ravenswood City School District, strict-, administrators there have taken a bold approach to that district's low test scores.

Omowale, assistant to the superintendent, said the reason the district's children scored below the comparison bands in half their tests was probably a combination of perhaps five factors.

He named them:

- The way the test was administered.
- The way each pupil might have approached the tests.
- The way the testing program is organized at each of the district's individual schools.
- The possibility that certain content areas are not being taught in the classrooms.
- The possibility that there is a need for improved teacher performance.

Omowale stressed that, overall, Ravenswood children scored about 12 percentage points below the state norms in each of the six tests administered.

He said the district is not pleased about that. "This performance is not satisfactory," he emphasized "Yes, someone has to be at the bottom of any curve, but it doesn't have to be us."

He noted that, although the district's comparison bands are quite low in terms of expectations, he would like to see those anticipated percentile rankings increased as well.

Said he, "Our goals are greater than the bands suggest." He added that the district is going to make a concerted effort to improve those scores this year.

Will the scores reflect such improvement at this time next year? Answered Omowale, "I would put book on it."

In the Sequoia Union High School District, trustees there learned earlier this month that Sequoia's scores were questionable because of the way the tests were administered.

Apparently, some students at Ravenswood High School took only half the tests, thus invalidating the results for that school and, in part, for the district as a whole.

In terms of expectations on the comparison bands, the district did not score as well this time when compared with the previous year. However, because of the Ravenswood foulup, all of the results of the tests are now in question.

According to the district's director of student personnel services, Thomas Stephens, the Ravenswood principal did not realize the "significance of his task in administering the multiple instructions."

When the Millbrae School District received its scores, five of which exceeded the comparison ranges, there was no talk of how the tests might be in error.

Instead, the district produced a two-page press release which included a variety of bits of information about how well the district was doing above and beyond the test scores.

But the implication was clear: the results of the tests were being used to substantiate the district's claim to excellence, even in the face of economic problems.

Pacifica House Is Damaged

A two-story wood-frame and stucco home in Pacifica's Fairmont district suffered heavy damage by fire early this Christmas day.

A fire department spokesman said the occupants were not home when the fire started at 402 Imperial Drive, possibly from a defective flue.

Firemen said letters found in the home indicated the resident to be Charlene Pascua, who works at night and whose children were reportedly at a relative's home for the night.

D.C. Chess Play

Youth vs. Experience

Youth versus experience is the theme of a six-game chess match now underway at Daly City's Serramonte Library on Saturday afternoons.

Fourteen-year-old Jay Whitehead of San Francisco, a nationally-recognized junior champion, is challenging veteran Menas Borel of Daly City, holder of European and American titles. With the third game of the competition scheduled to begin at noon on December 27, the young challenger holds a 1½-½ point advantage.

Both players are nationally-recognized champions. Borel, an electronics engineer and computer programmer at the University of California Medical Center, coached the Rumanian national team from 1949 to 1964. He was influential in developing the ability of the International Grand Master Florin Gheroghiu — one of the few players to have beaten Bobby Fisher.

In 1956, Borel captained the Rumanian National Team at the Olympics in Moscow. He won the Chess championship of Bucharest in 1961 and the Northern California Championship in 1966.

In addition to these honors, Borel also captured the American Open Senior Title in 1972, the San Jose Open in 1973, and the San Mateo-Burlingame Championship in 1975.

Whitehead, although only 14-years-old, has already been cited as one of the top junior players in the country by Chess Life. A student at Everett Junior High in San Francisco, he holds the 1974 Northern California Open junior trophy and played to a three-way tie for the championship in the 1975 California Junior Competition.

At the recently-concluded American Open at Santa Monica, Whitehead won six of eight matches, defeating three masters.

In accounting for the popularity of the game, both players agree that the keyword is "complexity." "Chess is an intellectual activity, which, when used in the right sense, can help develop the technique of thinking." Borel noted. "It can help develop strong character and the will to win."

The veteran champion, as a computer programmer, also stressed the important role that chess plays in the development of artificial intelligence systems.

"Many computer programmers are also chess players," he noted. "The former world champion Botvinnik, for example, is active in developing programs to play chess."

"The chess game has also developed one of the richest literatures in the world," Borel said. "The Grand Master Lazlo Szabo of Hungary had a library of 4,000 books about Chess."

Observers are welcome at the Serramonte Library matches. At the conclusion of each match, the two players will be willing to answer questions and discuss chess strategy. Chess sets are also available at the circulation desk for use in the library.

With the booming popularity of tennis, the cry is no longer, "Anyone for tennis?" but, "Tennis, everyone?"

And no longer is it a country club game. You can tell, because all the best people are giving it up.

When I was a kid, only sissies played tennis. Now that it's popular with the masses, I can unpack my old racket, if I can find it in the macho pile of baseball bats and footballs.

Most of my friends got their tennis elbows by leaning them on bars.

That's the truth, and that's why I have only on rare occasions mentioned tennis in this column, despite the lately more persistent urgings of tennis buffs.

I may be drummed out of the sportswriter's union for admitting this, but because of all of the above, I know very little about tennis, and frankly, don't really care to learn. I don't like tennis. It's dull and boring. The only professional tennis match I've ever watched all the way through — and I doubt that the purists would give it that strong an accolade — was the Billie Jean King-Bobby Riggs affair. Oh, yes. Also the Court-Riggs match. Now you know where my taste in tennis lies.

NOT EVEN Nasty Nastase thrills me. I find Jimmy Connors a boor, and I really don't think Chrisie Evert is so cute.

I'm not denying the athletic prowess of top tennis players, as I have done from time to time with golfers. I'm only saying that I'm not enamored by the game.

Ironically, I lived across the street from two tennis courts during the peak of my jock years. But the nets were almost always down because we neighborhood kids used the courts to play "Strikeout," a popular playground game which was hampered by nets. There were two similarities between "Strikeout" and tennis. You could play "Strikeout" with two players, and you used a tennis ball. But there was no pitty-pattying the ball. One guy would stand at "home plate" at one end of the court, usually wielding a softball bat, while the other guy would stand at the place where the net should be and do his best to hurl a tennis ball by the batter. The tennis balls were never, never purchased from a store. They were always retrieved from errant forehand smashes by those sissies who played tennis, whenever they could coerce the playground director into re-erecting the nets.

I did try tennis for a while at about age 13, but only because a neighbor who was moving was cleaning out his old memories one day when I happened to be around, and he gave me, along with a leather basketball and a Daisy single-shot B-B gun, his old tennis racket. And it was OLD. It actually was wooden and actually was strung with real cat gut, and was one of those heart-shaped rackets that had at one time been popular.

But when you're 13 and using a heart shaped racket in a neighborhood where baseball is king and you are taking up the "Strikeout" courts pitty-pattying that tennis ball across a net at the neighborhood tom-boy, who was the only possible opponent in your age bracket, instead of hurling it with all your might at a kid trying to bust it open with a softball bat, you don't play tennis long. Especially when you learn that even male tennis players are supposed to wear shorts. At that age, basketball is the only acceptable sport for shorts.

As I said above, I still have that heart-shaped tennis racket, buried somewhere in a bag of baseball bats and footballs. But that isn't significant, since I also still have the leather basketball and the B-B gun.

Maybe a compromise can still be worked out. Wonder if you can play "Strikeout" with a tennis racket?

SUDDEN THOUGHT: Would Olga Korbut be as popular in this country as she is if she didn't have such an American-sounding, easy to pronounce name, instead of something like, perhaps, Serafima Gimazetdinovich Galiullin?

-WE STILL SAY that as long as Walter O'Malley is alive and running the National League, the Giants will not leave San Francisco, or wasn't that Walter O'Malley who, at the winter meetings, said that the league would operate the Giants until they could find a buyer who would keep them in San Francisco?-

RICK BARRY has so well blended into the team concept (or perhaps it's the other way around), that I now read Warrior box scores without necessarily looking first to see how many points Barry has scored. In one game in which he hit for only 10, I didn't realize it until the next day, when a fan was grousing about how that game would hurt Barry's average. I had read the box and failed to notice Barry's point total at all.

Parenthically, a few days later the Warriors wiped out Milwaukee, and eight of them scored in double figures. That's unusual enough, but what was more unusual was that such a performance has become so relatively common for the Warriors, that no newspaper bothered to point it out in its game story.

NOW THAT O. J. Simpson is hinting at retirement, the inevitable comparisons between he and Jimmy Brown are becoming more commonplace and intense. We dislike making such comparisons, although they are interesting, because one can compare only by records, and statistics often can be misleading and such analyses seldom do either man enough credit.

However, in defense of Brown, who must almost inevitably come off second best in such comparisons — if only because Simpson is fresh in every fan's mind — I must remind that Jimmy Brown was not generally a well-liked player, while Simpson is. Therefore, it's our guess that Brown took many more extra-curricular beatings in the pileups than O. J. has suffered. So, if nothing else, it's a pretty sure bet that Brown played hurt more often than Simpson has.

Another sudden thought. After all the years of speculation about whether there might ever be a regular black quarterback in the NFL the Rams' James Harris has established himself with virtually no fanfare.

SPEAKING of quarterbacks and how statistics can mislead. Atlanta's Steve Bartkowski had some of the NFL's worst passing statistics, yet when he was out of the game, the Falcons lost, and when he played, they won.

LOCAL NOTES: Three San Francisco State Gators got honorable mention recognition on the UPI's Little All-Coast squad: Ends Jens Holmgren (tight) and Ed August (wide), and defensive back Chuck Aston.

Dave Matas, the Terra Nova running back-defensive back who made all-NPL on both offense and defense, made All-County on defense and was named the NPL's "Back of the Year," has added to his honors by being selected as one of two San Mateo County athletes to be honored at the Northern California Scholarship National Football Foundation Hall of Fame. Matas was selected not only for his athletic performances, but also for his scholastic ability and student leadership qualities.

And Steve Lacey, a former Terra Novan, now a sophomore at Menlo College, was named to the All-Central Coast Conference first team as a linebacker. He was also Menlo's "Most Valuable Player" and team captain.

1955-1975 All-County Team

By STEVE JOHNSON

Imagine a high school football team that can boast of:

- An offensive backfield with prep career averages of 2,800 yards and 36 touchdowns per man.
- Two quarterbacks (one of them an eventual Heisman Trophy winner) who went on to engineer upset Rose Bowl wins.
- Another quarterback who, during his collegiate career, attracted the attention of pro scouts by leading the nation in total offense.
- A wide receiver who was a consensus All-American in college, and shortly afterward was starting for a world champion professional team.
- Linemen who are still spoken of with awe around the County, even by people who never saw them play.

Those are just some of the components of The Post's 1955-1975 All-County high school football team, a brilliant group of 25 consistently dominant players selected after extensive research and interviews.

Capuchino and Serra high schools each placed five athletes on the squad. Sequoia had four, South San Francisco three and Burlingame two.

The '57, '59 and '68 seasons each had the participation of six of the players. There were five each in '63 and '67.

One quarterback is Jesse Freitas of Serra ('67 and '68), who completed 264 of 472 passes for 3,803 yards and 45 touchdowns. He led the Padres to a combined 17-2 record, with the '68 team ranked as the top squad in Northern California.

Freitas went on to star at San Diego State, where he led the nation in total offense in 1973. He now plays for the San Diego Chargers.

The other quarterback is Don Bunce of Woodside ('65 and '66). Bunce totaled 2,498 yards in total offense and 36 touchdowns in pacing Wildcat teams that went 17-1.

Bunce became a standout at Stanford and engineered a Rose Bowl upset over Michigan in '71. He is in medical school at Stanford.

Gary Beban of Sequoia ('61 through '63) racked up 2,667 yards in total offense and 24 touchdowns in league play as a single wing tailback.

He won the Heisman Trophy while playing at UCLA, and played three positions for the Washington Redskins in 1968-69.

He is now living in Northbrook, Ill. and working for Coldwell Banker Co. in Chicago.

Beban has a New Year's date in Pasadena, where UCLA will play heavily-favored Ohio State in the Rose Bowl. "It'll bring back a lot of memories," says Beban, who quarterbacked the 1966 UCLA Rose Bowl team to a 14-12 upset win over Michigan State, which had beaten the Bruins earlier that season.

Beban went on to win the Heisman trophy in 1967, but that Rose Bowl game still looms large in his memory. "We were a three-touchdown underdog against a team we had lost to . . . heck, I remember Jim Murray writing that no one should bother to show up because it would be like the Christians being fed to the lions."

The 29-year-old Beban, who still carries his college weight of 190 pounds, says, "The 10 years have gone very quickly. It doesn't seem like the 1966 game was just yesterday but it sure doesn't seem 10 years ago, either."

Halfback Greg Jones of South San Francisco ('63 through '65) rushed for 2,782 yards (averaging an amazing 9.4 yards per carry) and scored 52 touchdowns as the key figure on some excellent SSF teams.

Jones played well at UCLA — and might have done better if he hadn't been forced to take over the quarterback job when others were injured. He played for the Buffalo Bills in 1970-71. Jones now works as a salesman for a food container wholesale operation in Walnut Creek.

They were worried about No. 42.

Jones had caught mononucleosis between his junior and senior years. Just before his senior season began it was announced that Jones might not be able to play at all.

But, two weeks later, he was on the field as the Warriors prepared to face Mills. Jones would play — but how well?

He took his first handoff from quarterback John Moro and packed through the middle of the line. Suddenly he was through, with only two Mills defenders between himself and a touchdown. In an instant, the famous Jones moves had both Mills men on the ground — falling in opposite directions away from him — and he raced to a score.

Greg Jones

Jimmy Kauffman

That day Jones had touchdown runs of 53, 40, 18 and 45 yards as SSF went on to win 52-27. He gained 230 yards in 13 carries (17.7 yards per carry).

"Just wait till he's well," someone muttered.

Alonzo Emery of San Mateo ('66 through '68) topped off a highly successful career in his last season, rushing for 1,552 yards (a 9.1 average) and scoring 126 points.

Emery, who helped lead the '67 and '68 Bearcats to a 15-3 record, played at Arizona State, then went on to join the Southern California Sun of the World Football League. He is now a recreation worker in San Mateo.

Receiver Lynn Swann of Serra ('67 through '69) caught 87 Freitas passes for 1,423 yards in his first two seasons, then switched to quarterback in '69 and picked up over 1,000 yards total offense. His 271 total points helped the Padres to a 26-3 record.

Swann had a great career at USC, where he became a consensus All-American. He is a starting wide receiver for the World champion Pittsburgh Steelers, and has just been named to play in the Pro Bowl.

Swann was playing quarterback before an SRO crowd of 5,500 persons at San Mateo High . . . it was November 8, 1969 and Serra could clinch a tie for the WCAL title by beating archrival Bellarmine.

In the third quarter of a scoreless game, Swann ran back a punt 51 yards to the Bellarmine 19, and shortly afterward dove over from the one to score. He kicked the extra points.

Little more than three minutes later, he was knocked senseless while trying to pass.

But he returned to the field on the next play and raced 44 yards around left end for his second score. He kicked that PAT, too, and Serra won 14-0.

"The worst thing they could have done was to have hit Swann in the stomach like that," said Serra Coach Jesse Freitas Sr. after the game.

Obviously Swann was a dangerous foe — even when he wasn't catching passes.

The other receiver is Tom Scott of Serra ('67 and '68) who in his senior year caught 37 passes for 729 yards, rushed for 507 yards in 56 carries and scored 14 touchdowns.

Scott was a star at the College of San Mateo and then at the University of Washington before going on to Canadian professional football (where he earned Rookie of the Year honors in his division).

The tight end is Clayton Stephens of Serra ('57 through '59), who went on to become a standout at Notre Dame. He is an executive with Chase-Manhattan Bank in New York.

The offensive tackles are Bill Bowman of Capuchino ('56 and '57), who played at San Jose State and teaches in that area, and Bob Svihus of Sequoia '59 through '61), who starred at USC and later with the Oakland Raiders.

The offensive guards are George Crooks of San Carlos ('62 through '64), who played at Stanford, and Joe Del Carlo of South San Francisco ('63 and '64), who is now a truck driver in South City.

Center Rich Koeper of Sequoia ('59 through '61) was a standout on Cherokee teams that won 34 straight games. He had a good collegiate career at Oregon State and played for the Atlanta Falcons in 1966. He later returned to Oregon State as line coach.

The Sequoia teams with Koeper and Svihus were so good that just scoring on them was considered to be a moral victory. In the early 60s, when Sequoia was so strong, Ravenswood opted not to play them at all. Thus, a forfeit score of 2-0 was the result.

Ravenswood could then say that its margin of defeat to Sequoia was the lowest around.

At one linebacker is Joe Butcher of South San Francisco ('54 through '56). He turned in a pair of yeoman seasons at College of San Mateo, and is now with the scavenger concession in Lakeport.

Another linebacker is Mike Otis of Sequoia ('60 and '61), who is involved with public utilities in the state of Washington.

Also at linebacker is Lynn Raymond of Capuchino ('58 and '59), who played at Utah State and is a teacher at Cap.

The defensive ends are Chris Jessen of Carlmont ('56 and '57), who played at Stanford and is a pediatrician in Los Angeles, and Mike Carboni of Burlingame ('57 through '59), a local swimming pool repairman.

Defensive lineman Gary Toogood of Capuchino ('56 and '57) played at Nebraska and is a dentist in Reno. Lineman Fred Wenger of Capuchino ('62 and '63) is working with a local probation department.

Scott Ergas collected 22 points for SSF (1-6). Jimmy Jones had 18 and Mark Matheson 10.

Dual Role for Board Member

BOARD 'ENIGMA'
Mrs. Bobi Carter of San Bruno promotes drug-free therapy for drug addicts but at the same time works with treatment facilities that use the methadone system to ease former addicts into a new way of life.

By JANET PARKER

Bobi Carter says she's the enigma of the Serenity Inc., Board of Directors.

A registered nurse, the San Bruno woman works in referring drug addicts to methadone treatment facilities.

But at the same time she is a proponent of drug-free therapy and, as a result, became a board member of Serenity, Inc.

Serenity will open the county's first therapeutic community by the end of the year.

"I just don't think methadone is the answer," said Mrs. Carter.

A hard-core addict, she said, may have been shooting heroin for 40 years and he's lived a difficult life, often in crime.

Methadone, for that individual, she said, is a good solution because it replaces heroin with a respectable drug and allows a former addict to gain self-respect and gain employment.

But in other cases, she said, there's a chance that someone who has been on drugs less time may be able to break away from the addiction entirely.

Serenity Inc., will focus primarily on the 18-to-30-year-old group of addicts.

The site in Redwood City at 2893 Spring St. includes three houses but only one is ready to open and will house six young people.

Eventually funds willing, all three houses will be providing therapy for about 25 individuals, all ex-addicts.

Mrs. Carter said she was working with an Alameda therapeutic center, primarily for Chicanos, when she was asked to join in the Serenity effort.

She will be providing in-service training for staff members.

The idea, she said, is for one junkie to help another and peer pressure is the root of it all.

"The addicts learn to help themselves," she said. "It's built on the strict application of peer pressure. And they usually are pretty strict on themselves."

The Alameda project with which she had been working predicted a 35 per cent success rate. Success, she said, is achieved when an individual "is totally drug free for the term of committment and thereafter."

Delaney Street in San Francisco, a widely known therapeutic community, asks for a two-year commitment from its residents.

Two years just seems like forever to an addict," she said.

That's why Serenity is asking for only 16 months from its residents.

The board will be accepting individuals from both San Mateo and Santa Clara Counties.

Referrals may come through the adult probation and parole departments.

In fact, for many an addict, Serenity Inc. could come as a court-offered alternative to going to California Correctional Institution.

At the house, the former addicts, she said, become a family.

Therapy consists of one-to-one counseling, group encounters and "family" therapy sessions.

Some of the residents may go to nearby Canada College or other colleges and others may be employed if they can find work.

But, she said, they don't want their residents to have any commitments for the first 30 days, including court appearances. All this must be cleared with parole officers.

And a physical must have been taken in the last 21 days before becoming a resident.

"They have to be willing to give up drugs altogether," she said.

If a member of the "family," should go back to drugs, "the family really gets tough on them."

She recalls an instance in methadone treatment where a young girl went to San Jose for the weekend and called Mrs. Carter on the phone, strung out on drugs and confused.

Patter of Little Plastic Feet

By JOHN HORGAN
Times Staff Writer

As you well know, zero population growth has firmly taken hold around here.

People are having fewer children, childless couples are no longer unusual and some folks just like to remain single.

Does this mean the patter of tiny feet on the kitchen floor is going the way of the dodo? Not necessarily.

There is hope yet. And you can thank the imaginative toymakers of America for that.

Who needs more kids when you can fill up your family room with dolls who can do almost everything a real live child can do except argue?

The Christmas season brings this out in stark focus.

Today, there are dolls for every occasion. There are dolls for your every whim and need.

There is Baby Alive, Baby That-a-Way, Baby Dear, Polly Pretend, Miss Ginny Deb, Drinkee Baby, whole families of dolls, entire housefuls of them.

There are dolls that wet, burp, roll their eyes, fall asleep, walk, fall, stumble, crawl, even hit the bottle, the nursing bottle that is.

Still, that's playing it safe. Those toymakers have a good thing going because all of those dolls are well-behaved. None of them really hits home 100 per cent.

If you are going to forego having children, the least you can do is create a realistic situation with a new line of dolls I'm thinking of marketing.

Try some of these cuddly cutups on for size:

- Baby Wake-up. She rolls out of her little crib at 4 in the morning and rips the covers off you and demands to go to the bathroom.

- Baby Destructo. He sneaks into your den and tears down all your rare books, marks up the walls with a crayon and runs his collection of steel trucks all over your Ming Vase.

- Baby Croup. This delightful devil coughs and wheezes until sunrise on odd days of the week and then sleeps all day.

- Baby Collapse. You know this one well. She rides in your Safeway shopping cart. Then, just as you approach the checkout counter, she performs a half-gainer with a twist onto the floor and lies there unconscious along with the Presto logs and Di Gel.

- Baby Left Hook. Watch out for him. He does his thing on your cat. He sneaks up behind your pussy, belts him and then claims that those claw marks on his cheek are a result of an unprovoked attack by a rabid animal who ought to be put away.

- Baby Inhale. She has a propensity for anything found lying in your backyard. She favors snails, leaves, sow bugs and small rocks. It's no wonder she's never hungry at dinner time.

I'm not sure any of these dolls are going to outsell the likes of Baby Alive or Polly Pretend.

St. Michael's Tournament

McGILLICUDDY TOURNAMENT

The 1975 McGillicuddy Memorial Christmas Tournament, sponsored by the Better Youth Association, and co-sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, in the Eighth Grade Division was won by St. Michaels.

St. Michaels reached the final game defeating St. Andrews A 2, OLM A and Turnbull before beating Good Shepard 65-36 in the championship game.

Good Shepard reached the final game defeating St. Andrews A 1 team in an exciting match 42-32.

The consolation champs were the PAL Jets who after losing to Mater Dolorosa bounced back to defeat OLM Whites 41-19 and in the final game beat St. Andrews A2 49-35 in what was a fine performance by both teams.

In the Seventh Grade Division All Souls defeated St. Michaels in a close game 53-51 for the championship.

St. Thomas Moore and PAL also went down to defeat to All Souls, while St. Michaels defeated St. Peters, OLM and Good Shepard to reach the final game.

OLM were consolation champs by defeating BYA Bucks, BYA Reds and OLPH in the final.

The Sixth Grade Division also was won by All Souls who defeated St. Andrews A2, St. Michaels and S.A.L. 37-19 in the championship game.

SAL reached the final game by defeating the BYA Lakers, BYA Indians and St. Andrews A 1.

Again it was OLM winning the consolation game defeating St. Peters 35-15.

After losing to St. Andrews A 1 they were able to beat St. Paul and St. Andrews A 2, to take third place.

OLM were the Fifth Grade Division champs as they defeated St. Andrews in a close game 38-34.

OLM also had some close victories as they beat SAL 16-13, and Good Shepard 24-21.

St. Andrews defeated St. Michaels and BYA Wildcats before losing to OLM.

SAL beat Holy Angels 24-12 in the consolation game after defeating a tough St. Peters team 28-21.

The Junior McGillicuddy Tournament for Fourth Grade teams was won by St. Andrews A. They edged SAL 12-11, also defeated St. Thomas More and Holy Angels, while SAL had defeated St. Elizabeths, St. Michaels and All Souls.

OLM took the consolation championship by defeating St. Elizabeths 27-20 and St. Peters 16-6.

CELEBRATE NEW YEAR'S EVE HERE

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Healthy, Prosperous New Year To All!

Merriment, festivities, champagne, and kisses at midnight are on the agenda for New Year's Eve, as 1975 becomes history and 1976 is ushered in. Another year gone, with dreams and hopes either fulfilled or preceding in importance in future months. After all, its a New Year -- a fresh start. The various restaurateurs, hotel executives and club owners represented in today's "Bright Lights" not only promise to offer the public a night of revelry, excellent dining, and quality entertainment on New Year's Eve, but resolve to provide more of the same every night of the New Year. Whether its a festive "package" (one price pays for the entire evening) at one of the hotels or a quiet dinner for two in your favorite restaurant, enjoy this typical American salute to "Father Time." And we suggest you drive carefully. May 1976 be a healthy and prosperous year for everyone!

in the coming year is construction of Gellert Park Clubhouse. Cost of the facility is estimated at $130,000.

Another $34,000 will be expended in 1976 for bike paths in the city.

Two bikepaths — from the San Francisco County line along Lake Merced Boulevard to John Daly Boulevard, and from Junipero Serra Boulevard to Skyline Boulevard — were approved by the County Bikeways Committee.

Application for grants under the 1974 State Recreation Bond Act were submitted, totaling some $252,000 for four new parks: Hillside, Lincoln, Bayshore and Mussel Rock parks.

SOME 52,200 persons last year used the new Westmoor swimming pool, while total attendance at the city's playgrounds topped 555,000, according to records.

The Daly City Community Service Center participated in the following activities last year: child care program; Operation Headstart; CETA programs; Guadalupe Health Center; United Way; County Housing Authority projects; County Manpower Planning Council; summer programs (Neighborhood Youth Council); county revenue hearings; Junta de Mujeres de la Raza; County Commission on Status of Women; County Mental Health Advisory Board; children's services; Thanksgiving ing basket disposal; Senior Citizen Nutrition project; Arts Council proposal; Mexican-American Unity Council (MAUC).

Operation Santa Claus; Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG); Juvenile Diversionary program; food stamp outreach program; art classes; teen and adult recreation programs; emergency food bank; and food stamp distribution center (15,000 homes in last 11 months).

BUILDING CONTINUED to show slight gains in 1975, with a total of 815 building permits issued, with a valuation of some $14.6 million.

In addition to construction of the new Serramonte Library ($488,077), projects now under design by the city staff include a storm drain system to alleviate flooding in the Sullivan and 91st Street area ($108,000); an elevator at City Hall ($75,000); and a ramp for handicapped persons at City Hall ($10,000).

There were four sizeable subdivisions underway in Daly City at year's end:

Serramonte Unit No. 19, at Callan Boulevard, and Morton Drive; Blossom Valley, along East Market, at Price and Florence Streets; Midway Village, near the Cow Palace (formerly a U.S. Military billeting project); and Nano Park, Second Avenue, between Price and Castle Streets.

for the prosecution," Gruber told Judge Edson.

Garvie argued that both psychiatrists should be reappointed because of their familiarity with the case. But Judge Edson said, "Under the circumstances, I'll reappoint Dr. Levy and appoint Dr. Shoor."

Harris is charged with kicking to death as Gee and his wife, Puen, were strolling near their home.

Garvie is seeking the death penalty against Harris, alleging that the killing occurred during the commission of a robbery attempt.

Gruber said that earlier this month that Harris was released prematurely from a state hospital because of budget cutbacks.

Two Held in Car Theft Case

The arrest of two juveniles — both aged 17 — in Daly City Sunday may have broken the back of a large scale car theft ring specializing in stealing Javelin model cars.

Both youths, arrested on car theft charges, had sets of master keys on them when they were apprehended at the corner of Cosa and Eldorado streets at about 4 p.m. Sunday, police said.

DC Woman Robbed

An employe of a Daly City coffee shop was robbed at gunpoint near her apartment shortly after midnight Sunday.

Barbara Kaplan told police she was going home after completing work at the Lyons Restaurant on Ponsetta Street when a man armed with a gun robbed her.

employes as possible by attrition. Councilman Aubrey Lumley asked if there had been any study of the savings that could be made by placing employes on a four-day work week.

To the latter point, Weidner said, "The approach would provide less effective governmental operations than maintaining a 40-hour work week with fewer employes.

"The reason . . . for this," Weidner said, "would be that the city would quickly lose its most qualified and experienced employes as they found employment elsewhere.

Councilwoman Janice Fulford noted that Weidner had proposed eliminating few city administrators and chided the city manager for "having the chiefs cutting the indians, who are directly serving the public."

Mrs. Fulford specifically pointed out that Weidner had not suggested any cuts in the department of finance.

To that point Weidner commented, "If we were a city that was financially well off then we could afford to get by with less financial controls. But we are not and we need all the finance help we can get.

"In fact," Weidner added, "I'm considering asking for an additional person in the finance department."

Lumley called Mrs. Fulford's "chiefs and Indians" comment a valid one, and suggested that administrative cuts be made in the police and fire departments, where, he claimed, there is an "overload" of administrators including captains and assistant chiefs.

At the end of the meeting, Weidner said he would look into possible cuts at the administrative levels of all departments.

In examining each city department, the council grappled with the proposal for firing of a total of 24 city employes.

After much discussion, the council told the city manager to plan a community services department budget that would include eliminating nine employes.

Weidner had proposed that 11 persons be let go from that department, but the council noted that such a cutback would not allow the department personnel needed to complete some state mandated elements of the city general plan.

Although recognizing that there may be an increase in structural fires, the council also told Weidner to design a fire department budget which would include no fire inspector and no fire marshal.

In a written statement to the council, Fire Chief Calvin Hinton said that if the city's fire inspector were let go, then the city may have to contract with the State Fire Marshal's Office to enforce the health and safety code.

The council further suggested that several Parks, Beach and Recreation Department employes be cut from the city payroll. The cuts, it was explained, would curtail park maintenance and some tree trimming.

Weidner had proposed the council consider eliminating baseball infield maintenance, but the council directed Weidner to leave that in the budget, fearing the cut in service might prove to be a liability to the city.

In the police department, the council instructed Weidner to cut from the budget crossing guards; steno crime reports, which would require police officers to type their own reports; and two patrol sergeants.

Lumley further suggested that the council eliminate its own $22,000 budget allotment for salary and expenses and allocate that money to departments that had been cut.

His idea received no support from the council.

In a budget related matter, the council endorsed a proposal by the Chamber of Commerce that it organize a citizens' task force to aid the city staff in preparation of the budget.

Mrs. Fulford voted against the motion, expressing concern that the chamber would not elicit enough volunteers representing a "cross-section of the city."

Chamber president Nick Gust urged any Pacificans interested in serving on the task force to call the chamber office.

A Happy and prosperous New Year to all and may our bi-centennial year prove to be one of real and lasting significance.

TONIGHT, amid a host of private and family gatherings and worship services, the members of Our Lady of Mercy Parish will be greeting 1976 with a traditional parish party.

For years now the parish hall has been the site of a sumptuous dinner and dance party, to which all members of the community have been welcome to celebrate in a room near enough to their homes that no one need worry about traversing the dangerous highways on a night notorious for its traffic accidents.

Tonight's party has been the special project of Mrs. Donald Bechtel and Noel Mertens. Mrs. Julian Fernando has been kept very busy filling orders for tickets, at $25 per couple.

Guests will begin gathering at 7 p.m. and the "sit-down" steak dinner will be served at 9 p.m., to be followed by an evening of dancing to the music of Al Borelli's band.

Mrs. Robert Brizuela has been the publicity chairman for the party, patriotically dubbed "Freedom and Frolic" in the spirit of the bi-centennial.

TWO DAYS and one night in Nevada will go a long way toward relaxing those hard working members of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild!

The guild women spend each holiday season preparing for their personal family celebrations and still find time to present a boutique, which remains open for several days, and a cocktail party for the benefit of members, their families and friends.

In short, the guild members maintain a strenuous pace htroughout November and December and so it is pleasant to be able to report that they are treating themselves to a few hours of fun in Reno and Sparks.

Plans call for the tour bus to leave at 8 a.m. on Jan. 14 and any guild members who would enjoy going, but who haven't made reservations, should contact Mrs. Virginia Stanghellini, guild president, immediately!

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO dynamic Mrs. Louise Enberg, the executive director of the Bay Area Chapter of Friends Outside, reports that Friends Outside will be the beneficiary of a roast beef dinner Jan. 17 at 6 p.m. in the social hall of Lakeside Presbyterian Church in San Francisco.

Noted photographers Charles and Asta Huppe will present their award-winning slide presentation, "Miracles of Nature." The series of photographic and sound essays have been taken during the Huppes' extensive travels throughout the west, emphasizing the urgency of man's conservation responsibilities.

Tickets, costing $5 per person are now available. Call 863-5100 for more information or to reserve your tickets now.

MRS. EDNA LAUREL CALHAN, tour director for the Pacifica Fifty-Plus Club, is seeking some indication of interest in a trip to San Francisco's Chinatown for a luncheon and visit to the Chinese theater. If you are interested in joining such a jaunt on Jan. 25 let the reservations chairman, Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg, hear from you. Scheduling of the trip will depend upon the type of response the idea arouses.

Good morning and Happy New Year, good cooks.

In ancient Rome, Janus was the god of "beginnings" whether temporal or spatial. As the god of spatial beginnings he presided over gates and doors, and as the god of temporal beginnings over the first hour of the day, first day of the month, and the first month of of the year (which bears his name). He was usually represented with two bearded heads placed back to back, so that he might look in two directions at the same time.

Since tomorrow is the first of January, I would like to look back and print a recipe I first offered in 1962. It was a terrific dessert then and still is . . . delightfully easy, inexpensive and most delicious.

LEMON MYSTERY DESSERT

1 package lemon gelatin, 3 ounce size
1¼ cups hot water
Juice and grated rind of one lemon
One-third cup sugar
1 large can evaporated milk
Dash of salt
Graham cracker crust

Combine the one package lemon gelatin with the one and one-fourth cups hot water. Stir until completely dissolved. Add the juice and grated find of one lemon one-third cup sugar and dash of salt. Place in the refrigerator until cold and syrupy.

In the meantime, pour the evaporated milk into an ice cube tray tray and allow it to just begin to freeze (to the point where little fingers of ice appear at the edge of the tray). Fold into the syrupy gelatin mixture and whip until the mixture is about double in volume. Using the highest speed on your electric mixer, give it plenty of time to beat up to double volume, the lighter and fluffier the better.

Pour into Graham cracker crust, in a 9x13-inch pan, and chill. Serve topped with whipped cream and sprinkled with English Toffy crumbs. Using two English Toffy bars, either place in plastic bag and crumble or grind in blender.

GRAHAM CRACKER CRUST

1½ cups Graham cracker crumbs
One-third cup sugar
¼ cup softened butter

Combine the one and one-half cup crumbs with the third cup sugar and fourth cup softened butter. Mix well. Press into bottom of 9x13-inch pan and bake in 375 degree oven for seven minutes. Cool completely before filling. Serves 12 generously.

Looking forward to 1976. I hope it brings us all health, happiness and, speaking personally, many new recipes to share with you good cooks.

HOLIDAY PARTY

Women interested in learning about breastfeeding should attend at 424 Magellan Court on Jan. 8, at 8 p.m.

Ski Trip Dec. 27

The Daly City Recreation Department is sponsoring a one-day ski trip to Sierra Ski Ranch on Jan. 17.

To defray expenses for skiers, a car-wash has been planned for Dec. 27 at the Skyline Phillips 66 Station at Southgate and Westmoor Avenues.

Car Show Set At Fairgrounds

Nearly 100 competition and feature entries have been accepted so far for the big annual 1976 San Mateo Custom Auto Show set for Jan. 9-11.

Co-producers Harry Costa of San Bruno and Andy Brizito of South San Francisco promise an array of cars, rods, dragsters, competition road and track machines, vans, motorcycles, dragboats and others worth more than $2 million.

The event is to be held Friday through Sunday at the county fairgrounds, p.m. Friday, and noon-11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Show features will include the "Godfather Car" (a Lincoln in which "Sonny" was machine-gunned), the "Phantom Dream Car" (subject of a major television documentary seen in the Bay Area this year), and Frank Fiore's new "Spider" Indi-Fiore's new "Spider" Indi-English rock music star Jeff Beck has been scheduled for appearances at the show as well.

Adult admission is $3.50, including free parking and movies.

Chapter Will Meet

Xi Lambda Sigma Exemplar chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will start off the New Year with a meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 5 at the home of Mrs. Daniel O'Connell, South San Francisco.

Two cultural programs will be presented, namely, "Vive La Difference" by Jean Sprouse and "My Half of the Apple" by Pat Mouton.

The customary "surprise package" for the philanthropic fund will be donated by Mrs. Harry Johnson.

ORGANIZING DONATIONS

The Daly City Friends of the Library are organizing book donations made throughout the holidays. The Friends remind residents that any unwanted books that turn up during the holidays may be submitted at any of the four libraries. Records also are accepted. Looking over a few of the donations are (fromleft) Olga Canada, library commissioner; Virginia Tierney of the Friends; and Denise Schwarzbach, chairwoman.

Gift Plant Loss Can Be Prevented

By IVA NEWMAN

Gardening

Plants as Christmas gifts have become increasingly popular year after year. The new owners are delighted as the plant adds that certain something needed to make the most beautiful room more homelike. Yet, in spite of loving care the plants are shortlived in many cases. Many of the losses could have been prevented if a note on the care of the plant had been attached to the gift.

First, the new owner should realize that a plant is a living thing. It has been grown with as much care as a new-born human baby. It was raised with just the right amount of warmth and coolness, the right light exposure, the most scientific soil mixture and the correct amount of nutrients and water. In addition it was cared for by trained, experienced people who could spot unhappiness in a plant at a glance.

Many of our Christmas gift plants are not house plants. Many have been forced into flower much earlier than normal by their trained caretakers. Flowering of others tave been delayed. Here are a few hints on how to help a Christmas plant adjust to the conditions in its new home.

The Poinsettia, the most popular of all Christmas plants has been covered in the Plant of the Week.

Azaleas are quite popular gift plants. These are shade-loving plants that have been pushed into flower a bit ahead of their normal flowering period. The azalea needs moisture around its roots at all times and it also needs some moisture on its foliage, but it also needs excellent drainage so removing the foil or filling that portion of it that covers the bottom of the pot full of holes is a must. Also, sitting the pot up on a couple of short lengths of garden stake to keep the bottom of the pot out of the water in the saucer (needed for humidity) is a must. Where possible, an azalea should be placed in a protected place out-of-doors each night to benefit the plant. The flowers will last longer if the plant is left out-of-doors for a few hours each day. Indoors, give the plant as much light as possible to prolong the life of the flowers. Outdoors, give it lots of light but little or no sun.

Since chrysanthemum growers have discovered how to bring these popular fall-blooming flowers into flower at will they have become popular gift plants. Here again, the plants need to be kept very moist but not allowed to sit in water so removing or puncturing the foil under the bottom of the pot must be done. Give the plants as much light as possible and turn the pot from time to time. When the flowers fade, cut the stems back to about four inches, fertilize it and place the pot outdoors where it will get some sun, keep the soil moist and it will flower again.

Orchids have been gaining in popularity as gift plants. We haven't been too successful in bringing these plants into flower a second time in the house as we can't give them enough light. Cymbidiums have been easy to flower, year after year as we place the pots on the Northeast end of the house where they get a bit of morning sun and high shade the rest of the day. They are fertilized with slow-release fertilizer a couple times a year and watered once or twice a week, depending on the weather. The Lady slipper orchid and the cattleyas grow but do not bloom as our oak trees shade the windows too much. For these orchids we recommend boarding out between flowering periods. We find they stay in flower a long time in our living room but do not repeat flowering.

The Piggyback plant, Tolmiea menziesii, is a particularly easy plant to grow indoors. It likes lots of light but little or no sun and a temperature of around 65 degrees but adapts easily to a higher temperature. It likes a humus filled potting mix and watering often enough to keep the soil on the moist side but never wet. If the plant is allowed to get too dry at any time it will show its displeasure by some of the leaves dying.
